The formation of international organizations has been a 20th century phenomenon. Nowadays there are more than 2,500 international organizations. Among them are more than 130 intergovernmental unions. The United Nations Organization is the most notable. Other important organizations are the European Economic Community, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Organization of American States, and the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance. The creation of international organizations on a wide scale in the 20th century is the result of the progress in the technology of communication, transportation, and the spread of industrialization. These developments gave rise to a sense of interdependence among the peoples of the world, and made people recognize the importance of international co-operation to avoid the dangers, solve the problems, and use the opportunities which confront the society of nations on a world-wide scale. Some organizations are concerned only with single and relatively narrow problems, while others, such as the UNESCO under the United Nations, deal with a great variety of matters. Moreover, international organizations function as either intergovernmental or nongovernmental agencies.

23. Why did people create international organizations?
- A) They wanted to declare the war among the countries of the world.
 - B) International organizations function only as nongovernmental.
 - C) They wanted international co-operation to solve the problems.
 - D) The creation of international organizations began in the 19th century.
24. How many organization names are mentioned in the passage?
- A) 6 B) 130 C) 20 D) 2,500
25. All of the following statements are FALSE, EXCEPT ...
- A) The United Nations Organization is the least notable.
 - B) Nowadays there are more than 500 world organizations.
 - C) The United Nations Organization deals with relatively narrow problems.
 - D) There are more than 130 intergovernmental unions.
26. According to the passage, the UNESCO deals with
- A) various problems B) war problems
 - C) narrow problems D) a single problem

Have you ever imagined what it would be like to do something amazing that no one else could do? That's what it must have been like for Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. He was born in 1756 in Salzburg, Austria. Mozart showed his musical genius early. Encouraged by his father, Mozart began to play the harpsichord at the age of three! At age four he could compose piano music and play the violin. He began composing minuets at age five. He wrote symphonies at age nine.

Mozart could compose a long piece of music in his head. He imagined what he wanted it to sound like and then played it perfectly. He often did this without writing it down. When he wrote it down, it was flawless. When Mozart was 12, he and his father visited St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome. There they heard a famous piece of music called a Miserere. This music was beautiful. The church did not allow it to be copied or performed elsewhere. But Mozart loved the piece. He wrote it down from memory so he could play it himself.

During his life, Mozart produced more than 600 musical works. He is remembered as one of the most brilliant composers who ever lived.
